Reading Sheet one

Today is my friend's birthday party. He has invited me and five other friends to his party. At the moment we are playing Blind Mans Bluff. I am blindfolded and am trying to catch my friends by feeling all around to see if I can touch them. I am having fun at the party and so is everyone else.

We have already had lots of good food to eat. Tom's mum made lots of jellies and cakes. They were yummy. She also had sausage rolls, pies and pasties. After we have played games we will have some birthday cake and will sing happy birthday to Tom. We have played lots of games. I won pass the parcel and got a little notebook and some coloured pencils. I am looking forward to using them when I go home. Tom won at musical chairs. He won a bat with a ball. The ball is on a string which is joined to the bat. He has to try and hit the ball up in the air.

It is a long time until my birthday. It is February now and my birthday is in August, so I have to wait six months. Still I am already planning what sort of party I will have. Mum has told me I can invite six of my friends and also my three cousins will be coming. That will be ten of us altogether. Mum says that is a good number to come.

I have a calendar in my room and have already begun crossing off each day when I go to bed.
